MENHIR CAM-LOUIS - PLOUESCAT

GUINIRVIT PASSAGE GRAVE - PLOUESCAT

THE MEGALITHS

MEGALITHS AND THEIR MYSTERIES

BRITTANY KEEPS AN ANCIENT SECRET: YOU NEED ONLY FACE A 7-METER HIGH STANDING STONE, OR VISIT A SUBMERGED 'PASSAGE GRAVE' TO PONDER THE COMPLEXITY AND MAGIC OF SUCH MYSTERIES.

Megaliths are the work of the first sedentary communities living in the area during the Neolithic period, approximately 5000 BC. Standing stones ("Menhir" in breton) might have been territorial markers, or indicate the edges of a ceremonial space or burial site. Some megalithic tombs, "portal dolmen", were originally covered by a stone cairn or earth barrow and used as collective tombs.

┃ DOLMEN DE KERANGOUÉZ SAINT-POL-DE-LÉON

This 5000-year-old dolmen testifies to the presence of an ancient community in the area. Until the 20th century, many other menhirs and dolmens were present in Saint-Pol-de-Léon.

DOLMEN DE KERANGOUÉZ

┃ MENHIR DE KOUGN AN DRE - PLOUESCAT

Address: Créac'h ar Vrenn (towards Saint-Pol-de-Léon)
This 3.70-meter high menhir was registered Historic Monument in 1970.

┃ MENHIR D'IRVIT - PLOUESCAT

Address: Irvit (Route D330))
Registered Historic Monument in 1921, this menhir measures 4 meters high. According to legend, like a clock it strikes time, but only at midnight and midday! Accessible on foot and by bike.

┃ MENHIR DE CAM-LOUIS - PLOUESCAT

Address: Cam-Louis (along the GR34)
Almost 7 meters high, this menhir is one of the highest in Brittany, and was registered Historic Monument in 1909. Legend says it stands on top of a treasure only accessible on Christmas day or when the clock strikes midnight! Raised on the heathland and bordering the shore, navigators also use it as a marker.

┃ ALLÉE COUVERTE DE GUINIRVIT PLOUESCAT

Address: Baie du Kernic next to the Baie du Kernic camping
Registered Historic Monument in 1960. This passage grave was used as a collective tomb by a family or a clan between the Neolithic period and the Bronze Age. It was once covered by a tumulus ("earth mound") or a "cairn" (pile of stones). This grave, originally built on the lowland, next to the Kéallé River, is today submerged at high tide and is, therefore, an indicator of sea level rise.

┃ LE MENHIR DE KERGALECC - CLÉDER

This 3.60-meter-high menhir is located in a field near Kerfissien Port. Legend says that every 99 years, during a full moon, Korrigans (small fairies) sneak out from under the menhir, leaving their treasure behind.

┃ ALLÉE COUVERTE DU MOUGAU COMMANA

Location: Northern side of the Monts d'Arrée, Mougau Bihan
Registered in 1909, this passage grave, situated close to the Mougau bogland, is one of the most well-preserved graves in the region. This 14-meter-long megalith holds an exceptional diversity of carvings: the Mother Goddess represented with two pair of breasts, polished axes, rowing oars etc. According to the legend, it was named "the Tomb of the Giants".

LE PETIT TRAIN TOURISTIQUE ROSCOFF

All Aboard the P'tit Train de Roscoff with Panoramic Roofs! Step onto the P'tit Train de Roscoff and set off on a timeless 45- to 50-minute journey through the legendary corsair city...

Departing from the old port, will you catch a glimpse of Tristan Corbière, the cursed poet, wandering along the ancient quay in search of inspiration? Or perhaps you'll spot Mary, Queen of Scots and Queen of France through her marriage to Francis I, gazing out to sea from her turret, hoping for calmer waters?

Leaving the quays behind, the P'tit Train will take you through narrow, history-filled streets, where shipowners' mansions, churches, and chapels stand side by side. The journey continues towards Château du Laber, passing by the CNRS research centre, the Marine Cemetery, France's first thalassotherapy centre, medical facilities, and Rosko Goz.

On the way back, the P'tit Train will take you past Bloscon Port, where, like the Johnnies setting sail for England, you'll bid farewell to Saint Barbara, who watches over Fort du Bloscon.

As you return to the quays, at Clos Marie, the famous courtesan Liane de Pougy may just invite you to join her...

LE MUSÉE YAN' DARGENT SAINT-SERVAIS

The museum exhibits the artwork of the artist Yan'Dargent, born and buried in Saint Servais (1824-1899). Yan'Dargent painted landscapes of his Native Léon the same way he painted the Crozon Peninsula: by representing the legends of his childhood, such as his most famous painting « Les lavandières de la nuit » ("The washerwomen of the night"). He decorated numerous churches and was a prolific illustrator. In 2025, the Yan' Dargent Museum celebrates the Breton imagination in the works of Yan' Dargent—landscapes, legends, and saints of Brittany. A remarkable selection of artworks is on display, including several paintings loaned for the occasion. The exhibition is introduced by a specially written text by author Philippe Le Guillou. Visitors are also guided through the church and ossuary, where they can admire Yan' Dargent's talent as a sacred painter.

LA FORÊT DOMANIALE SANTEC

In 1699, a strong cyclone was responsible for depositing considerable amounts of sand, covering fields and crops. The winds were so strong they almost reached Saint-Pol-de-Léon! To prevent another similar event from happening and to control soil erosion, a forest was planted. Today, it is the only coastal forest in North Finistère with unique characteristics and species and a rich network of hiking trails! Facilities include a recreational area in the forest for children and grown-ups alike: hiking trails, a playground, a fitness trail and an exhibition of sculptures.

A coastguard house hidden between giant granite boulders, seaweed ovens which appear suddenly under your feet, gunpowder magazines once used to store the explosive black powder. Spectacular granite formations shaping the coastline... Is it a face or a fantastic beast you can see in the rock? Some have names... The Sleeping Dog, the Camel... Will you recognize them?

┌ GLENN: THE BRETON POCKET KNIFE
MADE OF RECYCLED FISHING NET
PLOUESCAT

According to legend, this knife originated in Plouescat. One stormy night, a fisherman was swept away by a breaking wave. It is said that Glenn jumped from the boat, cut the meshes of the fishing net in which his friend was trapped and managed to bring him back on board. The only loss was Glenn's knife, which fell to the bottom of the ocean. The man he had saved offered him his own knife. That evening, in Porsguen's bar, Glenn bought a round of drinks and made a toast: "May this knife bring us good luck!". The next day, the fishing was exceptional, and this miracle was attributed to Glenn and his new knife. Since that day, tradition says that to seal a lasting friendship in Brittany, anyone who receives a Glenn must offer a drink in return.

Cidres à l'ancienne Domaine de Kerveguen

Éric Baron a créé les caves du Domaine de Kerveguen en 1993 à Guimaëc, près de Locquirec. Initié par une longue tradition familiale de paysans qui produisaient le cidre pour leur consommation personnelle, il ajouta sa patte, sa technique, pour des cidres toujours plus savoureux. Issus de l'agriculture bio, les cidres de Kerveguen vieillissent durant six à huit mois en fûts de chêne, quand la plupart des cidriers utilisent des cuves. D'où leur petit goût boisé et charpenté, qui laisse mille saveurs en bouche. Chaque année, après les maîtrises hivernales de la fermentation, Éric Baron élabore trois cuvées, selon leur teneur en sucre naturel résiduel : le mœlleux « Carpe Diem Prestige », le Brut, et la « Cuvée du paysan » pour les amateurs de cidre plus rude... Les cidres d'Éric Baron sont présents sur de nombreuses tables de chefs étoilés et son savoir faire est récompensé par la distinction suprême : sa cuvée Carpe Diem Prestige est sélectionnée par l'Elysée depuis 1997!

When Eric Baron founded the cellar of the Kerveguen estate in 1993, he was following in the footsteps of a very old family tradition where farmers used to produce their own cider. In order to perfect the taste of his ciders, Eric Baron developed his own technique. The ciders from Kerveguen come from organic farming and mature for six to eight months in oak barrels, which gives them their unique woody flavour. The organic cider was awarded a prize by the Elysée in 1997. by the Elysée. Visit to the cellar, tasting of ciders, apple juice, Pommeau brandy. Direct sales.

ECO-FRIENDLY HOLIDAY TIPS

Help us preserve our beautiful environment by using our waste containers.

• At the beach, a sand without cigarette butts, dog poo and litter is surely more enjoyable for everyone. It is essential to protect your skin from the sun, but make sure you choose an organic and eco-friendly sunscreen that does not use chemical solar filters (highly toxic to the sea and its organisms). When hiking along the coast, please follow the marked trail to preserve our dunes and avoid further erosion. Bikes and motorbikes are not allowed on the GR34.

• There are fishing quotas and minimum size limits for each species to ensure sustainable fishing and to preserve the fragile marine ecosystem. Fishing rulers are available at the Tourist Information Centres.

Find all the information you need in our Tourist Information Centres!

*In Brittany,
in this marine, urban, peasant territory,
it is whispered that...*

*The travelers don't count for much.
The coast is more wild than the inhabitants.
We receive waves of emotions, even in the middle of a storm.
We engrave each moment in our memory not on the stones.
We pick up our garbage because it is not the sea to drink.
We turn the earth of the fields, not the fine sand of the foreshore.
We consume local as naturally as we savour a pancake.
We willingly put down the bowl to dance at the fest-noz.
We contemplate the ballets of egrets on the tiptoe.
We find our freedom without escaping from the hiking trails.
The guides enchant the visitors and it is not a legend.
The meeting with Brittany is shared with pride.*
